the completion of tasks. Tutors working under such leaders show a higher degree of satisfaction, as opposed to those in working conditions that do not strike a balance and are biased towards the completion of tasks. The presented study provides a backbone upon which such future research commences. Overall, the head teacher should aim at achieving organisational goals; the leadership style that he or she settles on should lead to this.

References

Lee, H.Y. & Ahmad, K.Z. (2009). The moderating effects of organizational culture on the relationships between leadership behaviour and organizational com-

